

POLICE CORRUPTION

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS

TYPES OF POLICE CORRUPTION

- Asking and/or receiving a bribe
- Abusing official capacity to smuggle narcotics and/or alcohol
- Selling the contents of a police docket
- Protecting criminals
- Sextortion
- Intimidating the public

YOU HAVE A RIGHT TO:

- Be treated with respect and dignity
- Refuse to pay a bribe or 'spot fine'
- Report any approach for a bribe
- Ask the police official for identification
- Take a photo or record the conversation with a cell phone

WHAT TO DO:

- If the official is in uniform, note rank and name. If not in uniform, try to obtain evidence from bystanders as to the person's identity.
- Try to produce supporting evidence, in the form of a witness testimony or any other information that can help you to verify your case. It is important to not change or enhance any recorded image or conversation.

IMPORTANT

It is best to not confront police with an assertion of your rights if you believe that it will aggravate the situation, or if you fear for your physical safety. It is advisable to remain calm and ensure that you memorise as much information as possible, and thereafter lay a complaint with the channels that are provided below.
